VOL. 14, NUMBER 103 MONESSEN, PA, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 12 1915 SIX CENTS THE WEEK

The fall season is here. This country has arranged to loan $500,000,000 to Great Britain and France. Are you still croaking hard times? Maybe a little judgment and business push would help you.

Traveler From Foreign Country Is Here Today

Attired in a Tyrolean costume with a touch of Scotch dress, Hubert A. A H. VonPelt accompanied by his charming wife, arrived here this morning on a side jaunt from his tour of the world. He will be at the Star theatre this afternoon and evening and will tell of his wonderful adventures encountered in his travels. He has a number of slides taken during his trip and these will be shown on the screen. He left Vienna, Austria, alone on a wager of 25,000 Kronen to be given by the leading newspaper of that city and will tour the entire world.

He was born in Vienna Sept. 5, 1892, in the largest circus ring of the world. His parents were then employed as circus performers. His father bore the title, Edler Joseph Von Pelt. In 1913 his parents died and Hubert fell in the hands of the publishing company, so they gave him a chance to make a big sum of money by touring 10,000 kilometer in every country on the globe in 25 years and a start without money. He can't beg nor sell anything for a stated price, nor work for a salary and must pay his own expenses.

He has documents signed by head officials of different cities of the world, and with his camera he has taken scenic views of his travels. After traveling 11 years and 9 months, visiting all parts of the world, he reached the city of Pittsburgh, where he met with his greatest adventures.

Von Pelt says: "When I reached Pittsburgh I met Miss Lauretta Moldausch, a real Austrian girl born in Allegheny. She is 17 years old and seven months ago graduated from a Pittsburgh High school. At the time of our meeting she was taking a course in business college and to pay for her scholing, she worked nights as a cashier in a theatre where I met her on the first day of my arival in Pittsburgh. Two weeks later we secured a marriage license and were married at her home."

Von Pelt says he never drank a drop of any kind in his life and never smoked a cigarette. Since he got married he says he wouldn't trade with any single man's life nor all the money in the world.

Was Found Guilty

Borough Clerk J. E. Pittman was acquitted of a charge of robbing the National bank of Webster at the hearing in the Olympic hall last evening, but unfortunately was found guilty on a charge of intoxication, keeping late hours and being the father of to many children. Of course it was only a mock trial under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, and before the trial, a musical program was rendered in which a quartette of Belle Vernon singers, including James Byron, Jr., Mrs. H. Long, Thomas Hewett and Miss Gertrude Kelly took part and rendered some very appropriate selections.

P. P. Bush was the judge with Walter Robins, prosecuting attorney and Rev. H. O. MacDonald defending the accused. Mr. Pittman had a strong alibi, proving that he was not responsible for the robbery and stated that he was employed as a garbage collector and was out the night of the robbery until 4 o'clock in the morning. He admitted that he had imbibed a little too freely that night, but asked clemency on account of his poor wife and seventeen children.

Merchants Win

In one of the most exciting games of the season, the Merchants defeated the Independents at nine pins on the Colonial Palace alleys last night. The Merchants took the first game by a lead of five pins. The Independents won the second game by three pins and the third resulted in a tie. High score of 8 for a single game was made by both Muggsy and Devil, while Kub carried off low honors with 2. Following is the score of the three games:

ALWAYS

As you know always we have by special effort arranged for one or two comedies every day in our theatre. Such as Nestor's with Lee Moran, Lyons etc. Joker—with Max Asher and Gaile Henry and L KO with Billie Ritchie, Gibbon, Emory, Mann, Beggy, Pearch, etc. Our aim is to make our theatre an amusement institution as well as instructive and educating. We have as our standby the dramas solving the great problems of life; we have physiological pictures showing the genealogy of the wild and tame animals as well as

Hit By Auto

Frank Piunzo, aged 18 years, employed by the Henderson Coal company and residing at Webster, is in the Memorial hospital at Monongahela, suffering with a fractured skull as the result of being run down by an automobile while on his way home from work Saturday evening. He is also believed to be injured internally. His condition is extremely critical.

Piunzo was hit in a peculiar way. He stepped out of his road to avoid being struck by a speeding motorcycle and walked directly in the path of the oncoming automobile. He was dashed to the ground unconscious. The driver of the machine put on instant speed and was lost to sight before Piunzo's companions who had been walking with him, could see the license number. Efforts are now being made to find the driver of the automobile.

Big Crowd Present

Fully two thousand people visited the Philadedphia Candy Kitchen Saturday to attend the Fifth Anniversary celebration of this establishment. The crowds began to arrive early in the morning and during the evening the extra force of salespeople were kept busy until late at night. All tables at the ice cream parlor were occupied and many waited their turn. Hundreds of pounds of home made candy were sold during the day and the soda dispenser called for help early in the day.

The supply of roses was exhausted early in the evening owing to the rush which far exceeded the expectations of the management. The High School orchestra of ten pieces under the direction of Prof. A. W. Davies furnished excellent music during the evening. Visitors to the store made themselves at home and were shown through the kitchen where the candy is manufactured. It was a gala day for this progressive establishment and many compliments were showered upon the management for the rapid steps they have made in establishing such a business here, and the sanitary manner in which their goods are manufactured and served to the public.

Pastor To Leave

The Rev. J. E. Morris, D. D., pastor of the A. M. E. church of this city for the last three years, returned from conference last evening and reports the following changes in the valley: Rev. J. E. Morris to Uniontown and Rev. E. R. Baizer from Uniontown to Monessen. Rev. Wilson from Charleroi to Connellsville and Rev. C. P. Herrington from Connellsville to Charleroi. Rev. Frazier from Belle Vernon to Donora and Rev. Lotterberry from Donora to Belle Vernon. Rev. H. G. Thomas from Brownsville to Waynesburg and Rev. Simmons from West Newton to Browsnville. Rev. Goggins to Monongahela, and Rev. Henderson from Monongahela to Pittsburgh.

Rev. Morris will leave for Uniontown this week and take charge of his new work. He will not leave however until after the election. He has done a great work for the people of his race here in the last three years, having greatly improved the church property, increased the membership and raised and paid out for the trustees over $3,000.00. He is quite an enterprising pastor and will always be remembered in this community by the extensiveness of his game dinner, his patriotic day and other enterprising services.

He has been a member of the ministerial association ever since he came here and has been its treasurer for the last two years, which office he still holds. He leaves the city with a heart full of love for every person and says that he is very thankful, first to his own congregation for their loyal support to himself and family, to the citizens in general for their hospitality and co-operation in the promotion of the cause he represented and most especially to the ministerial association, the press, Father Wigley, Rev. Geo. Mickel, Mr. Nash and Mr. Morgan for what they have done to assist him in the cause he represents.

He carried to his conference this fall the largest report that has ever been taken from this charge which evidently was the cause of his promotion to a larger field, a membership of about 200. He says he will return occasionally as he owns a house here and therefore will look after the business side of life.

Prepare For Game

The High school football team will travel to Jeannette Saturday to meet the strong High school team of that city. This will undoubtedly be one of the hardest games of the season for the locals and Coaches Imler, Townsend and White are putting the squad through some hard practice for the contest. The tackling dummy has been placed in position and the boys are given new ideas in the art of tackling. The Monessen interference was a little rugged in the game with Turtle Creek, and it is hoped they will show improvement after the week's grilling.

Auto Mystery Baffles Monongahela Authorities

The Monongahela officers are still at sea regarding the theft and burning of P. C. Teeple's Buick automobile in Deep Hollow, Forward township, Friday night. W. R. Campbell of Lock No. 4 was arrested Saturday and when brought before Alderman Wiper was released on his own recognizance, and cited to appear today at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Campbell says he will be able to prove a complete alibi and the following story is told. It is said Mr. Campbell, his wife and a sister-in-law named Miss Smith had been out driving in his Ford car and had visited Elizabeth. At a garage in that place about 8 o'clock, he purchased five gallons of gasoline. They proceeded along the road at a good clip and the two women becoming frightened got out of the car at Lock No. 3. Campbell proceeded on his journey and discovered the Teeple car on fire in Deep hollow. In the meantime it is stated the woman said to be Mrs. Campbell and her sister-in-law got another car and started in pursuit. They drove up within sight of the wreckage, and then turned around and went back to Elizabeth and notified Detective Storer. He immediately got busy and started for the scene of the fire.

Officers working on the case now believe that Mr. Campbell, who is well known and held in high repute, is not implicated in any way in the crime. He resides at Lock Four and is manager of the Monongahela branch of the Pittsburgh Life Insurance Co.

Mushrooms Plentiful

Mushroom and chestnut parties are very plentiful in this vicinity at the present time and while the chestnut hunters generally use autos on their trips to the mountains, the mushroom hunters foot it to the fields about town. Mushrooms are evidently more plentiful than chestnuts as several parties who went to the fields last Sunday report having secured bushels of the delicacies. The chestnut hunters, taking advantage of the slight frost of Saturday night, left early Sunday morning for the mountains, but returned empty handed, having devoured the small supply before they reached home. "Hump" McNeil and his mushroom dog lead a brigade from the city every week and they always return with a good supply, as the dog leads the hunters to the big crop.

Candidates Capable Men

We are glad to recommend the Republican nominees for office locally. There can be no come back on the qualifications of these men. A. Johnson of the Third ward, was a member of a former body of council. He with his comrade, A. Allison, was among the main spokes in our municipal wheel. They know the game of running the town. They helped it through its hardships and over the rough places and we are glad to see them coming back, and best of it all is they are coming back with the consent of the Pittsburgh Steel company. Both men were members of the town's municipal body when we incorporated Wireton, and they knew what they were doing when that adjacent territory was proposed for annexation. We are glad to see the Pittsburgh Steel company take an interest in our municipal affairs. A corportion that pays almost one fifth of the taxes of the borough and is defeated for improvements that cost the town approximately $1,000 should take a hand in governmental affairs.

Dr. W. D. Hunter who lost much sleep and neglected his practice in order to get a decent grade on Ninth street, is also one of the nominees in the Second ward. The doctor is a fighter of merited ability when he believes he is right. His personal business is of little importance when it comes to the welfare of the town. If you want a representative who will make personal sacrifices you certainly have him in the doctor. So much for these three men.

Stepping down in the First ward, we have Al Knight, who was elected to his first term by the highest vote of any member in his ward, and who lost the long term by tossing a coin (an unfair method) got the nomination in a three cornered fight and is entitled to election. Mr. Knight is a good councilman and his friends stuck to him to a man determined that he should have his second term. He won and his nomination, we are proud to confess, is equivalent to election. Mr. Knight is an active member and as chairman of the streets and roads committee he fulfilled the expectations of all persons interested in good government. He gets the four year term and Walter Robins is the nominee for two years. Mr. Robins has the best interests of the town at heart and will make a good councilman. We do not speak of him as an experienced man in legislative matters, but we can recommend him as a man any elector can cast a favorable ballot for, feeling that in office he will do his duty conscientiously and for the best interests of the entire community.

With all these assurances we feel that it is the duty of the voters of Monessen to go to the polls and vote the straight Republican ticket and feel that no better men could have been selected for our municipal offices. With these men selected we will have strengthened our government and can ask for a bond issue for public improvements.

Doctrines of Thrift

When Benjamin Franklin preached his hard, sound doctrine of thrift and saving to a people well prepared to profit by his words, he had in mind more than the accumulation of money, more than the building up of comfort and prosperity. He knew better than most men that the driving power of thrift is wholesome pride, that the shrinking of the sensitive soul from pauperism in any shape is the only influence strong enough to support hardship and self denial. And he also knew that this independence of character is the backbone of national sanity and self-respect.

Prudence is an unlovely quality. The saints of the Eastern and of the Western world have been alike disposed to condemn it. But pagan Rome ranked it with justice; and Christian theology, borrowing from Rome, gave it place with the cardinal virtues. If it asks much, it gives more. The careful husbandry of early Puritan and Quaker laid the foundations of wealth, and made possible education and self development. A race of men and women, reared in robust simplicity, looked the world in the face, feared no frugality and whined for no favors. They did not like to economize any more than we like it now. They wanted what they could not afford just as much as we want it now. But they were a prouder people than we are now. Genteel mendicancy was as distasteful to their spirits as holding out a hat on the street corner.

We have grown kinder since those stern days. "Service" is our watchword. In our anxiety to smooth our neighbor's path, we have pressed the state, the city, the church, the club, the college into work. We have made the world a better and a softer place to live in; but the pride that promoted thrift and fostered independence is waning visibly. An immigrant family for whose sore needs a charitable association had appropriated six dollars, spent half that money in having their pictures taken. They said truthfully and touchingly that as long as they lived they might never again have a chance to be photographed, and that "if anything happened to them," the pictures would be a consolation. They were simply, kindly people, but they belonged to a recognized type. They would go on asking and receiving alms while they lived.

After stooping it was hard to regain an erect position and often the pains almost took one's breath away. Headaches were almost constant and black spots floated before the eyes. A number of medicines failed to bring help and Doan's Kidney Pills were finally procured at the Hirsch Drug Co. The first box brought relief and three boxes made a cure."

THE FIRST CITIZEN VOTES

President Wilson:—"I believe that the time has come to extend that privilege and responsibility to the women of the State."

SUFFRAGE PLANS WELL THOUGHT OUT

If Victorious, Women Will Continue Their State Association As An Educational Organization

ARE WATCHING POLITICIANS

Will Fight Any Who Use Their Power to Defeat the Suffrage Amendment

There are two answers to the question as to what the suffragists of Pennsylvania will do after election day this year. The fate of the suffrage amendment will decide them. If the majority of the voters agree with President Wilson that the time has come to extend the privileges and responsibilities of the ballot to the women, and pass the amendment, the suffragists of Pennsylvania will continue their State-wide organization but will use it as an educational organization rather than a political one.

If, on the other hand, the amendment is defeated, the organized suffragists of the State will devote their energies to removing the political obstacles from their path before continuing any active propaganda work

A brief but pointed presentation of the probable post-election plans of the suffragists was given out at their State headquarters in Harrisburg recently by Miss Hannah J Patterson, State Chairman of the Woman Suffrage Party. In answer to the question, "What are the Pennsylvania suffragists going to do if they win their campaign," Miss Patterson said:

"That is a question which every woman should answer for herself. As a member of the State Association, however, I may say that the opinion of the majority of the suffragists is that our State-wide organization should be continued, but as an educational organization rather than as a political one. In other words, there is no intention upon the part of the women to segregate themselves into a political party. Each woman will choose her own political affiliations, the same as the men voters, and will work in the way she sees best to bring about the betterment of conditions that affect the daily lives of herself and her family. To assist the individual women and also the individual men who are keenly alive to their responsibility as citizens, we shall probably convert our State headquarters into a great educational clearing house from which every thinking citizen in the State will be able to secure timely and accurate information on all the big vital problems of the day.

"In this way we believe that we can be of real service to the entire electorate of the State."

"But supposing the suffrage amendment is defeated at the polls on election day?"

"We are not willing to concede that," she said, "because we have too much respect for the intelligence and fair-mindedness of the men of Pennsylvania. Moreover, we have good reason to believe that unless crooked methods are used and every bit of machine pressure in the State is brought to bear against us, we shall win by a comfortable majority. If we should be defeated, however, we shall still continue our State organization and its various local branches. And then because it will be the logical thing to do, we shall start the work of removing the obstacles from our path."

"Just what do you mean by that?"

"The situation is this," explained the State Chairman. "If we are defeated, our amendment cannot come to a vote for five years. It would be folly to push active suffrage propaganda work immediately. We have an organization, however, that is big enough and strong enough and responsive enough to eliminate any obstacles in our path, whether they are individuals or organized interests Therefore, our first task for the next two years would be a semi-propaganda campaign which we would put into operation through entering actively into the defeat of any individual candidate for office or any organized interests that have opposed us. In that way, our situation would be made infinitely better when we start our straight suffrage campaign two years hence Our women are eager for work, they now know how to campaign in the political districts, and they know how to use the power which they have, but up to this date it has been concentrated solely upon the issue of suffrage. They are in this fight to win and a defeat this year would only serve to weld them closer together and make the organization even more powerful than it is today."

"Does that mean that you will fight the politicians?"

"Any politicians that have been fighting us and using their power against us—yes. Our position is that no man who is unwilling to see all the people directly represented in government is qualified to hold public office."

"If men must be accorded representation in government so that taxes may be imposed upon them, what good argument can be advanced against women being accorded the same privilege as a matter of right? The women are asking for a right, a principle inherent in our form of government. We cannot deny it to them without ourselves repudiating the bedrock of our national institutions"—York Gazette.

PRESIDENT WILSON WILL VOTE FOR SUFFRAGE; SAYS CHANGE WILL HELP STATE

On October 6th, President Wilson endorsed woman suffrage in the following authorized statement:

"I intend to vote for woman suffrage in New Jersey because I believe that the time has come to extend that privilege and responsibility to the women of the State But I shall vote not as the leader of my party in the Nation but only upon my private conviction as a citizen of New Jersey, called upon by the Legislature of the State to express his conviction at the polls. I think that New Jersey will be greatly benefited by the change. My position in regard to the way in which this great question should be handled is well known I believe that it should be settled by the States and not by the National Government, and that in no circumstances should it be made a party question, and my view has grown stronger at every turn of the situation."

FAIR PLAY—THAT'S ALL

If you are a man who loves Justice, aren't you big enough to be just to women?

Certainly—but prove it by voting "YES" on the suffrage amendment.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER

They say if mother had a vote,
The same as father, why,
She couldn't be a lady, quite,
No matter how she'd try.
Because she'd have, day after day,
To be a-thinking how
She then would run the government
The same as Pa does now.

Yet, though my father casts a vote
Once every year, to me
He seems as nice and kind and good
As any man can be.
Yet if the ballot, as they say,
Would work my mother ill,
Perhaps without it, father, too,
Would be lots nicer still.

How She Got Him

By MARTHA V. MONROE

Didn't I never tell you how your Uncle Cyrus and I come to get married? Well, I'll tell you all about it now. Your uncle was a long, lean, rawboned young feller, twenty-two years old, and had the fairm walk. I don't know where our fairmer boys git that walk unless it comes from follerin' the plow. But Cy was a stiddy feller and had a lot o' stuff in him. I knew two young women that wanted him, and I made a third But the other two was either of 'em so much better fixed than I that I didn't think there was any chance for me, though I didn't see much prospect of any of us havin' him 'cause he was so modest he wouldn't be likely to think any of us would have him and wouldn't propose.

One day when I'd been to the store for some things I wanted and was walkin' home Cy come down into the road by a cow path and joined me.

"Mornin', Miss Harker," he said.

"Mornin', Mr. Rogers," I answered.

"You got a lot o' red in your cheeks this mornin'. It's powerful becomin'." He was lookin' at me kind o' admirin'. "Seems to me either the young fellers about here have mighty poor taste or you don't want to git married"

"Oh, law sakes! Mr. Rogers, there's no one wants to marry a girl with no property of her own and no prospects"

"Would you reely like to git married?"

"Of course I would. I don't know any girl that wants to be an old maid; I don't, shore."

"If you feel that a-way I reckon I kin help you out. I know a man that lost his wife about a year ago and wants to git married to have some un to take keer of his children. I wouldn't mind introducin' him to you."

Fust off I was mad at his talkin' like that instead o' wantin' me for himself, but putty soon I reckoned he was so modest that he hadn't the spunk to put himself forward and was hidin' himself behind the widower. So I didn't let on I suspected, and I says:

"Mr. Rogers, if you kin get me that situation I'll be ever so much obleeged to you"

He didn't look very cheerful at my bein' willin' to take up with somebody else, but he didn't say anything except that he'd bring the widower to see me. I told him the sooner the better, for I was gittin' on, and purty soon even a widower with a hull lot o' children wouldn't look at me

I knew well enough that his widower was all in his imagination. Whenever I met Cy after that I asked him when he was goin' to bring his friend around First, it was the spring plantin' that kept him too busy to do anything else; then the wheat had to be cut, then the corn, and when the crops was all got in I hadn't seen the widower at all. One evenin' when I was drivin' the cows home Cy joined me on the road. I made up my mind that I wasn't goin' to be foolin' along that a-way any longer, so I said, says I:

"Mr. Rogers, I thort you was goin' to keep me from bein' an old maid by gittin' me the position o' mother to a man's motherless children. I'm mighty disappinted. It's half a year since you made that promise, and you hain't kept it yit."

"'Tain't my fault," says Cy. "I made the promise at the wrong time. Ef a farmer's goin' to promise anything he oughtn't to do it in the spring, when the summer work is jist comin' on."

"I thort the spring was jist the season for lovemakin'. Ef you'd brought yer man to see me then like enough we'd done enough courtin' by this time to be married"

Cy didn't look very happy over it But he didn't seem able to git up enough courage to go on with his way o' courtin', and I made up my mind to boost him.

"Tell you what, Mr. Rogers," I says, "you bring yer man round Saturday night and I'll forgive you for all the time you've wasted. Now, don't you forget it. Come about 8 o'clock, and I'll be ready for him."

I smiled at him the best I knowed how, and jist then we come to the lane leadin' down to the barn, and I turned the cows into it, follerin' 'em myself, and Cy went on down the road

When Saturday night come round I put on my Sunday clothes and made myself look as well as I could A leetle before 8 I see Cy comin' down the road. Of course he was alone, for his widower was no more a human bein' than a scarecrow in a cornfield is. When he knocked at the door I opened it, and he, bein' alone, I said, says I:

"Where's your man?"

Cy was makin' up excuses when I interrupted him with, "Here I am all dressed up to receive a lover and there's no lover to receive." I went back into the house and, sittin' down on a sofy, tuk out a handkerchief and pretended to wipe tears out o' my eyes. Cy sot down beside me to comfort me. He said he was mighty sorry to have disappinted me. If he wasn't so ungainly he'd offer to take the place o' the widower himself, but seein' he was freckled and rawboned and had the plow stoop, of course he wouldn't be a fit substitute, and all that.

I jist thrown my arms around his neck and said I'd rather have a man rawboned and freckled fust off than a secondhand man with half a dozen children Your uncle was mighty pleased to hear me say that, and when he went away that night at 11 o'clock we was engaged.

Following is the program of the Olympic theatre for week beginning Monday, Oct. 11 and ending Saturday Oct. 16—:

REGULAR PROGRAM

TUESDAY "Her Prey," G. Seal with Herbert Raulinson. "Billy's College Job," Imp, fine comedy. "No Flirting Allowed" with Mann and Peggy Rearch, L KO comedy.

WEDNESDAY—"An All Around Mistake," 2 reel Imp, with King Baggot, the favorite Universal star. "Married on Credit," with Billie Ritchie and Orth. L KO comedy. "He Couldn't Support His Wife" a Joker.

THURSDAY—"The Sheriff of Red Rock Gulch," a 2 reel Big U. Always we have the best from the Big U Universal. "Lady Baffles and D. D. in "The Ore Mystery" with Max Asher and Gale Henry, a Powers comedy. "Avenged by a Fish" with Gribbon and Emory, L KO comedy.

FRIDAY—"The Wolf of Debt" with William Garwood and Violet Mersereau. Here is asplendid production, one that would go on its wonderful setting and photography alone. But there is a lot more to it than that. To be sure one of the big punches is accomplished by means of night photography in a rain storm, but the story is there with a punch all the time. Handsome Billy Garwood as the deserted husband of pretty Violet Mersereau shows himself very much of a man, and will win your applause when he chases the run-a-way wife and her lover on foot through a terrible storm. He is big enough and man enough to bring matters to the right conclusion with one of the most effective climaxes ever seen on the screen.

SATURDAY—"The Ghost Wagon," in three reels. Every movie fan loves a western story on the screen if it's good. And he knows when he sees a good thing. Some of the bunko stuff put out as a western drama would make a horse laugh, but the Universal actors must know how to ride, and so there is a real thrill in "The Ghost Wagon" for every foot of film. Animated Weekly No. 186. The Strand theatre of New York, the best one in the world, runs the Animated Weekly for two years So it must be good and you know it, too.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

TUESDAY—"Should a Woman Divorce?" The social problem of the day. A powerful realistic drama in five parts. Synopsis—Grace Roberts while attending college in Chicago meets Dr. Franklin whom she loves dearly. He loves her, too, but on account of his affected eyes, fears to propose. Edward Smith, a wealthy cattle dealer, attended a surprise party at her home. They become infatuated and so they are engaged.

Dr. Franklin of Chicago, writes to her, asking her to become his wife. Grace in spite of her love for Franklin replies that his proposal came too late. Two years elapse. Grace and Smith and their little girl Vivian live in their palatial residence in Chicago. Smith makes Grace very unhappy owing to his cruel manners. One evening she meets Dr. Franklin and tells him of her marital troubles, he suggests to her an elopement. Indignantly she leaves him. On her way home she meets her husband Smith in the company of two women. She follows them to a cabaret. Infuriated with just jealousy she enters and denounces them. In this state of mind she rushes to a river, resolving to end her life. On the river's edge she removes her coat and prepares to jump. She wavers. "No," she says, "I will not. He is not worth the sacrifice. I will go to the man who truly loves me. She did, married him and they left for New York under the name, Mr. and Mrs. Scott.

In the meantime her husband, Smith comes home and becomes alarmed for her absence and gives a general alarm to the police. When a fisherman finds her coat on the edge of the river and notified Smith and her parents, Grace's mother becomes hysterical blames Smith and dies.

Six years elapse. Dr. Scott and Grace live quite happily in New York with their litlte boy Walter. Scott is now renowned as a stomach specialist and is a surgeon of international reputation. In Chicago, Grace's little daughter becomes awful sick and upon examination by prominent specialists of Chicago, disclose the fact that little Vivian has an ulcer in her stomach and an immediate operation is necessary. Dr. Scott of New York is suggested as being best qualified to perform the operation and Smith takes her to Scott. While arranging for the operation, Grace and little Walter enter the room. Smith and Grace recognize each other and this is where the great moment, the most dangerous, the emotional, the thrilling scenes and the real play starts. You will see the balance of this great picture at the Olympic today.

WEDNESDAY—"The Flash," a part of "The Romance of Elaine" with the dearest actress, Pearl White and the Mysterious Mr. X. We have not had a better serial picture than Pathe serial, " The Exploits of Elaine"—"The New Exploits and Romance of Elaine." A proof to this is the great crowds that attend these serials, but now we positively say and guarantee in every way that the new Pathe serial which is coming Oct. 27, Wednesday, "The Neal of the Navy" made for the Pathe by Balboa Co., the same company that made the series "Who Pays?"—"The Neal of the Navy" featuring one of the most beautiful actresses in America, Lillian Loraine with William Courtleich, is the greatest serial picture in the market yet.

—THURSDAY—The world famous actor, Nat C. Goodwin in Octave Mirabeau's tragedy, "Business is Business." Scenario by F. McGrew Twillis, produced by Ottis Turner. It is useless to talk any further. When Nat C. Goodwin plays in one of the Broadway Universal features, as both are solid as a rock Guaranteed by the strongest company of the world, with the famous actor back of it. The great pictures of Broadway Universal company continue to be wonderful and they are going to be continued indefinitely every Thursday.

Witnessed Shooting

One of the men who carried Abraham Lincoln from the Ford theatre at Washington, D. C., after he had been shot on the evening of April 14, 1865 is Jacob J. Soles, aged 71 of the Greensburg pike, North Versailles township. Mr. Soles is an old soldier and was in Washington during the recent celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Civil war.

"I was a member of Company G, Independent Pennsylvania Light Artillery and was stationed at Washington, near the Ford theatre, where we had pitched our tents and gone into camp," said Mr. Soles, in telling his story. "Four of us boys, Jacob Griffiths and John Corey of Saltsburg, near McKeesport, William Sample of McKeesport and myself, the other three having died several years ago, were in camp and attended the show at the Ford theatre. We were seated about 20 feet from the box which President Lincoln occupied. About 8:45 we heard a sharp report, and looking up, saw President Lincoln leaning over the railing of the box. He had been shot. My three companions and I hurried to the box and carried President Lincoln out of the theatre to 516 Tenth street where we laid his unconscious form on a bed in the north corner of the building on the second floor. Soon a big crowd collected and physicians who were hurriedly summoned, arrived. My companions and I left the building and went back to camp, where we reported to the captain."

Mr. Soles has been a resident of the Turtle Creek district all his life. He was born in North Versailles township and was married to Miss Margaret Myers at Braddock in 1868. Mr. Soles has three children living, Mrs. Laura Leffler of Stewart Station and William and Phillip at home.

Question Settled

The right of a negro to sit in any part of a theatre he may select, on payment of admission, was denied by the Superior Court in Philadelphia. The decision was filed by Judge Kephart in the suit of the Commonwealth against Athens George, appellant, from the Quarter Sessions Court of Dauphin county.

George, who owns a theatre in Harrisburg, having a main floor and a balcony, had a notice posted that the balcony was for negro patrons and if they did not desire to sit up there, they should not purchase tickets. The originial prosecutor purchased tickets for himself and another negro and when he was directed upstairs, he left the theatre.

The Superior Court holds to the general principle that the lower court should have admitted as evidence the testimony offered by the theatre owner that the balcony seats were just as desirable under the ticket purchase as the seats on the main floor. they were as desirable, then the prosecutor has not been injured, the court ruled. A new trial of the case was ordered.

frogs, fishes, snakes, etc., and last of all we have as we said, one or two comedies of the finest and truest to life as any theatre may ever have had in America. We are backed by the greatest company on earth, Universal Film Mfg. Co. Their comedies are a blesing to every family. They are the happy makers, you are happy while attending them in our theatre and you carry your happiness to your home, you talk about them, make your people happy. This is great, the greatest problem of our life which remains unsolved all these past centuries. The world is better and will be better, will quit murdering, stealing, will be what our schools teach us to be, what our churches strenuously since Christ's era, all philosophers, prophets, apostles, all clergymen of the world want us to be.

When you laugh, you are happy, all the surroundings of you are happy, then no crime can be committed. Never in the history of the world have we seen any person commit a crime while laughing. So there you are.

We want not only for the money, but for the good of the town in general, everyone to attend these comedies, to laugh, to laugh always and forget their worries and troubles and make themselves happy. It fp

Poor Speculation.

In theory it is good to go about shedding sunshine and making two smiles grow where one groan grew before, but in practice the pursuit is sometimes unpleasantly painful. Should you, at the dinner table in the boarding house which you infest, humorously request the waitress to fetch you a few capsules in which to take your butter, or inform the landlady that she does not really keep her boarders longer than any other reduced gentlewoman in that part of town, but instead keeps them so much thinner that they look longer, you may win a few pale smiles from your fellow guests, but the mistress of the mansion will soak you two dollars more per week for your wit.—Kansas City Star.
